

Protests in Pakistan

Examining the spread of protests and violence in Pakistan following the recent anti-Islam film

Prepared by Reza Nasim Jan
Critical Threats Project Analyst
Pakistan Team Lead

September 25, 2012

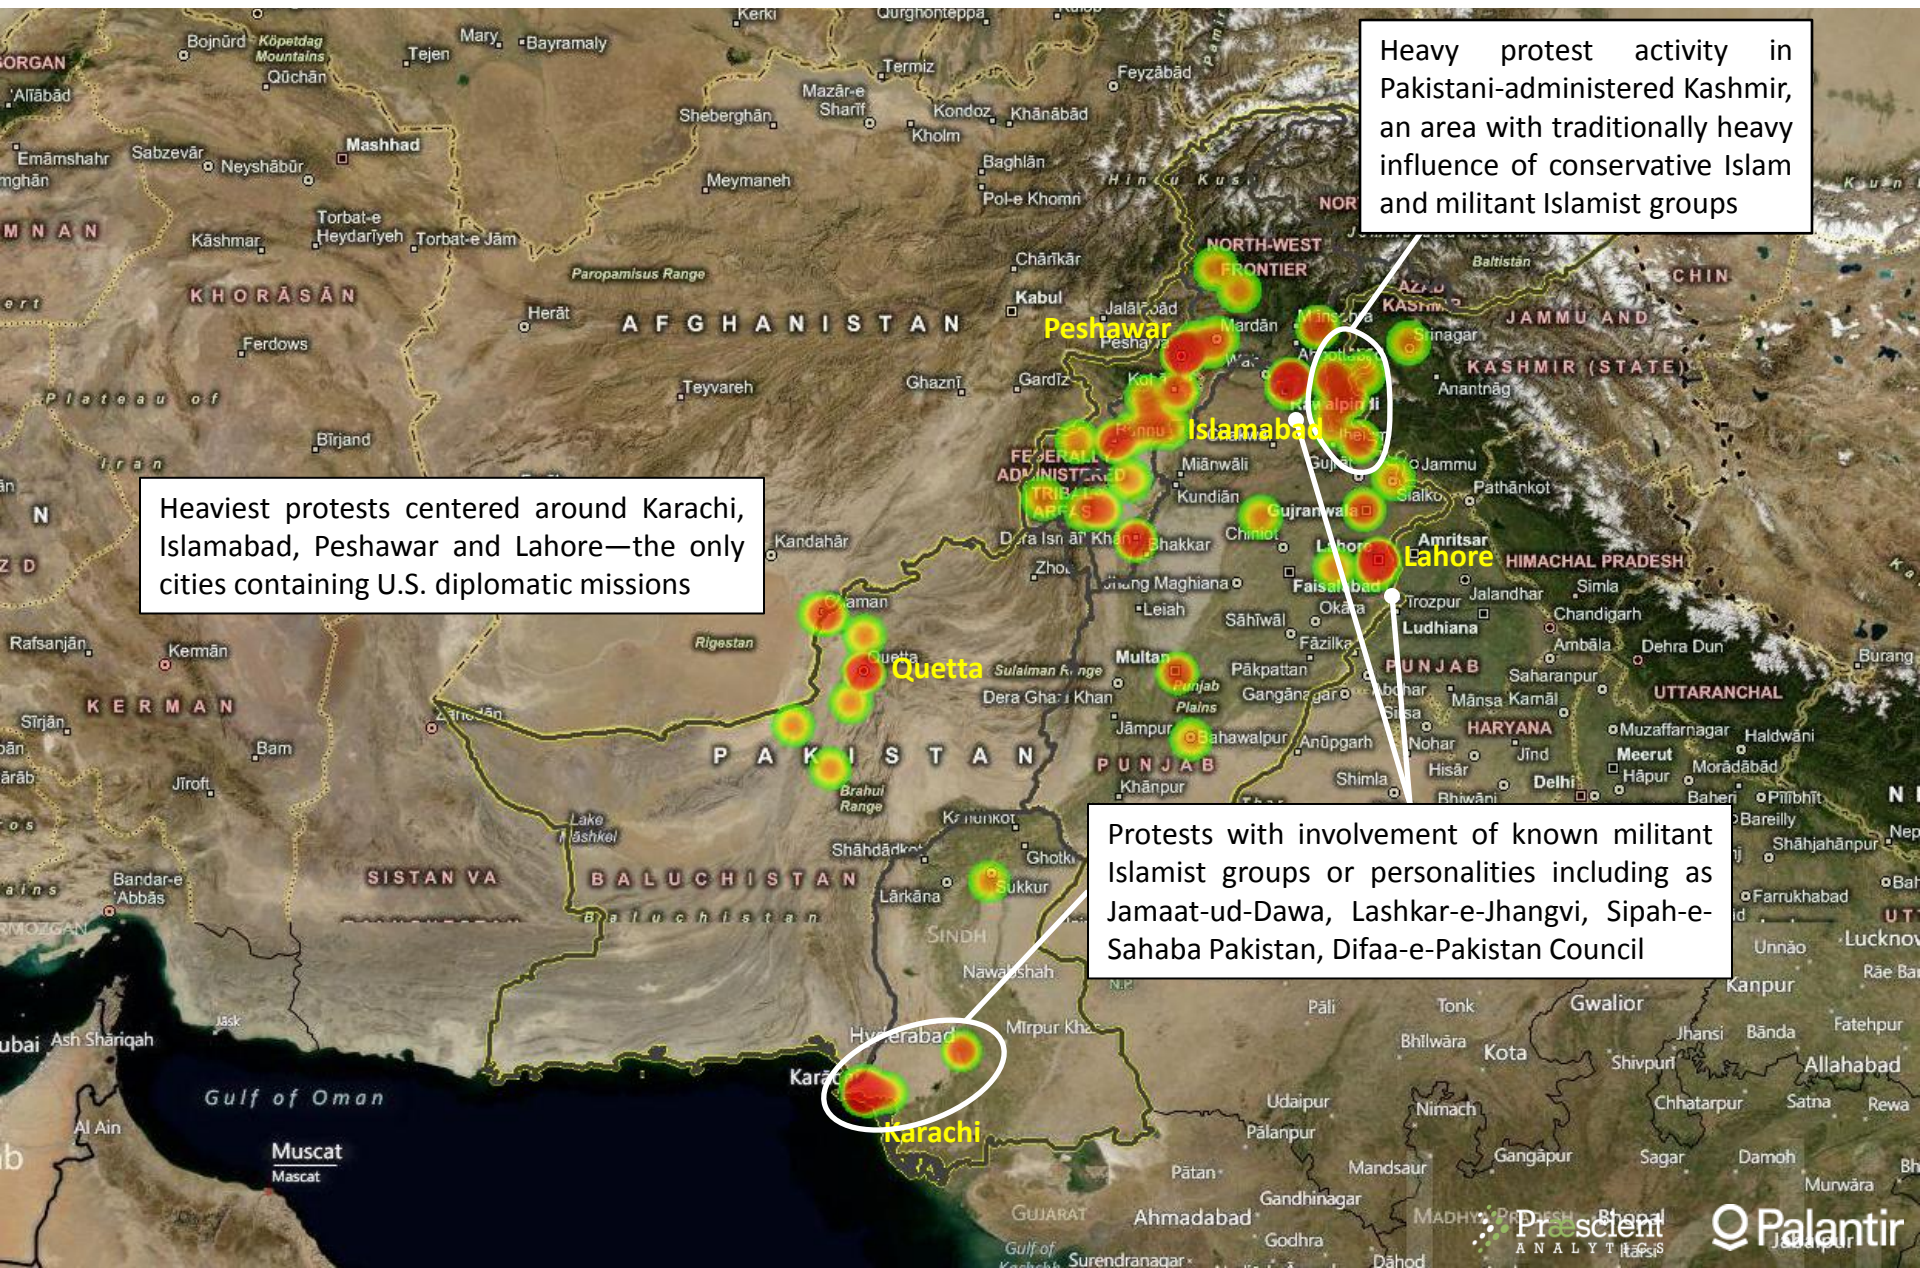

Protests following anti-Islam film across Pakistan

Period covered: September 14, 2012 (first protest marches) – September 21, 2012 (government-declared holiday in support of protests and day of heaviest protesting)

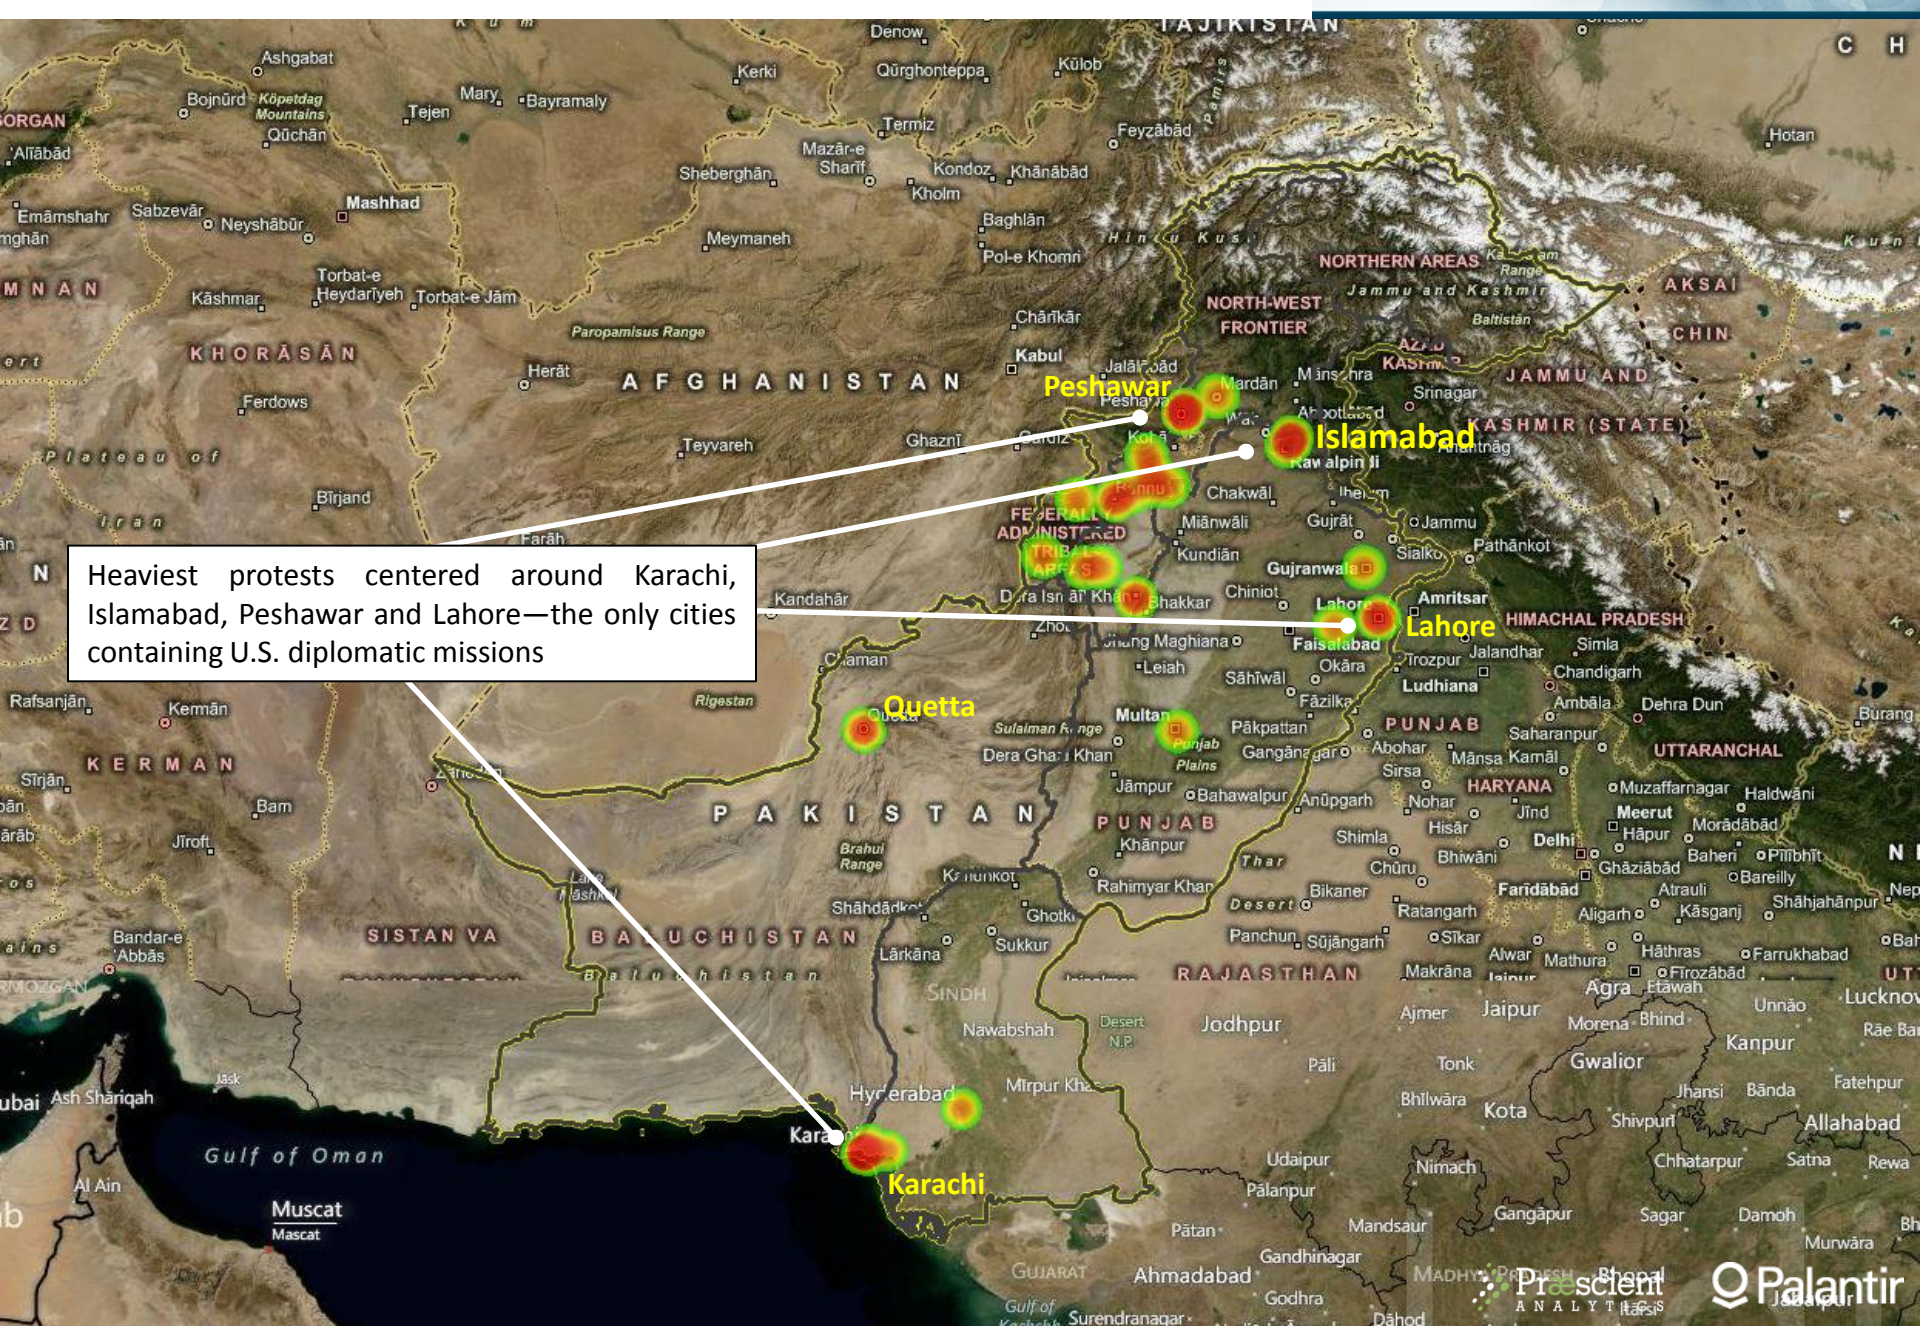

Protests following anti-Islam film across Pakistan

Period covered: September 14, 2012 (first protest marches) – September 21, 2012 (government-declared holiday in support of protests and day of heaviest protesting)

Heaviest day of protests, Friday September 21, 2012

AEI CRITICALTHREATS.ORG
UNDERSTANDING THE CHALLENGE. TRACKING THE THREAT.

Protestors burn cinemas, chamber of commerce, clash with police. 6 killed, 65 injured in Peshawar.

Mob burns church in Mardan.

Protestors clash with police, attempt to storm U.S. embassy in Islamabad.

Hospital, bank vandalized in Hangu

Mob torches cinema in Quetta.

Protestors make push towards U.S. consulate; torch bank in Lahore.

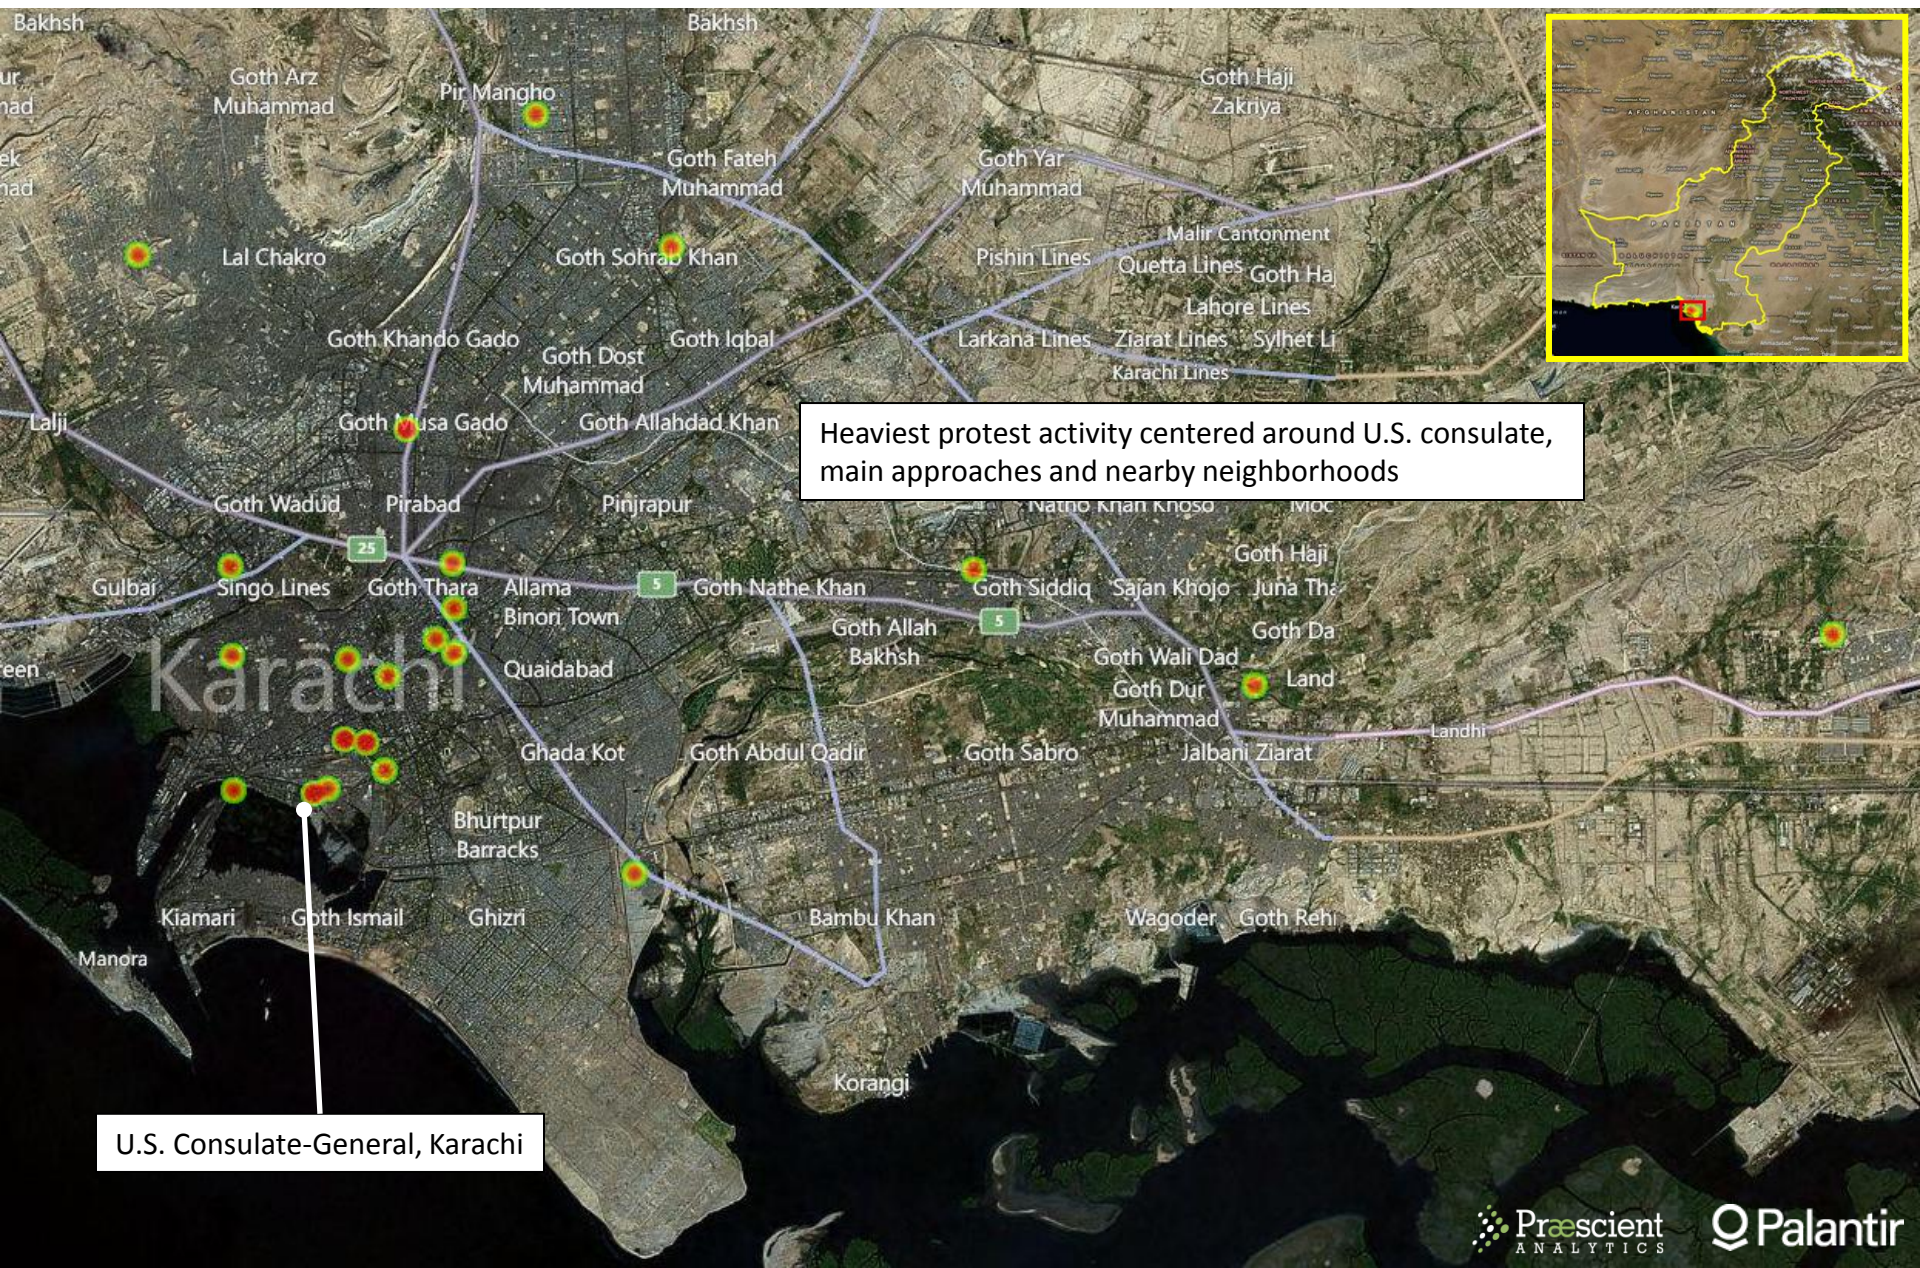

Journalists, locals refusing to protest attacked by mobs in Hyderabad.

Protestors attempt to storm U.S. consulate, burn buildings, exchange fire with police. 17 killed, 100+ injured in Karachi by September 21.

Protestors attempt to storm U.S. consulate, burn buildings, exchange fire with police. 17 killed, 100+ injured in Karachi by September 21.

Karachi: Experiencing the most violence

Period covered: September 14, 2012 (first protest marches) – September 21, 2012 (government-declared holiday in support of protests and day of heaviest protesting)

Heaviest protest activity centered around U.S. consulate, main approaches and nearby neighborhoods

U.S. Consulate-General, Karachi